HELLO, AUTO SHOW. MEET SUMMER. 46

The North American International
Auto Show comes to Detroit
this June

About the cover

For the first time in its 100-year history, the Detroit-hosted international auto show — NAIAS — will be held during Michigan's sweeter summer days in 2020. It takes over the downtown area starting on June 5, officially opening to the public June 13-20.

METRO DETROIT

THE DISTRICTS OF DETROIT

Metro Detroit is a term we throw out liberally around here. It can refer to as many as 10 counties in southeast Michigan that are included in various U.S. government statistical designations. More commonly, it refers to the three counties that contain or border the city of Detroit — Wayne (Detroit falls in here), Oakland and Macomb. You'll often hear it called the tricounty area, too. That's why you'll find much of the content in this magazine split into districts with names to match the three abovementioned counties of metro Detroit. Plus, we've given the city of Detroit its own section. Why? Because this is Visit Detroit magazine and, frankly, Detroit deserves it — there's just so many great things to see, do and experience downtown as well as throughout the city.

Metro Detroit is big, covering nearly 2,000 square miles. For context, the city of Detroit makes up about 140 of those — San Francisco, Boston and Manhattan equal less than 120 square miles combined. Before you go, we recommend you orient yourself with our area's expansive geography.

TERMS TO KNOW

Detroit's Central Business District: Bordered by the Lodge Freeway to the west, 1-75 to the north, 1-375 to the east and the Detroit River to the south, this is downtown Detroit's main visitor hub. Within its borders, you will find the TCF Center, GM Renaissance Center, Greektown and professional sports stadiums Ford Field, Little Caesars Arena and Comerica Park.

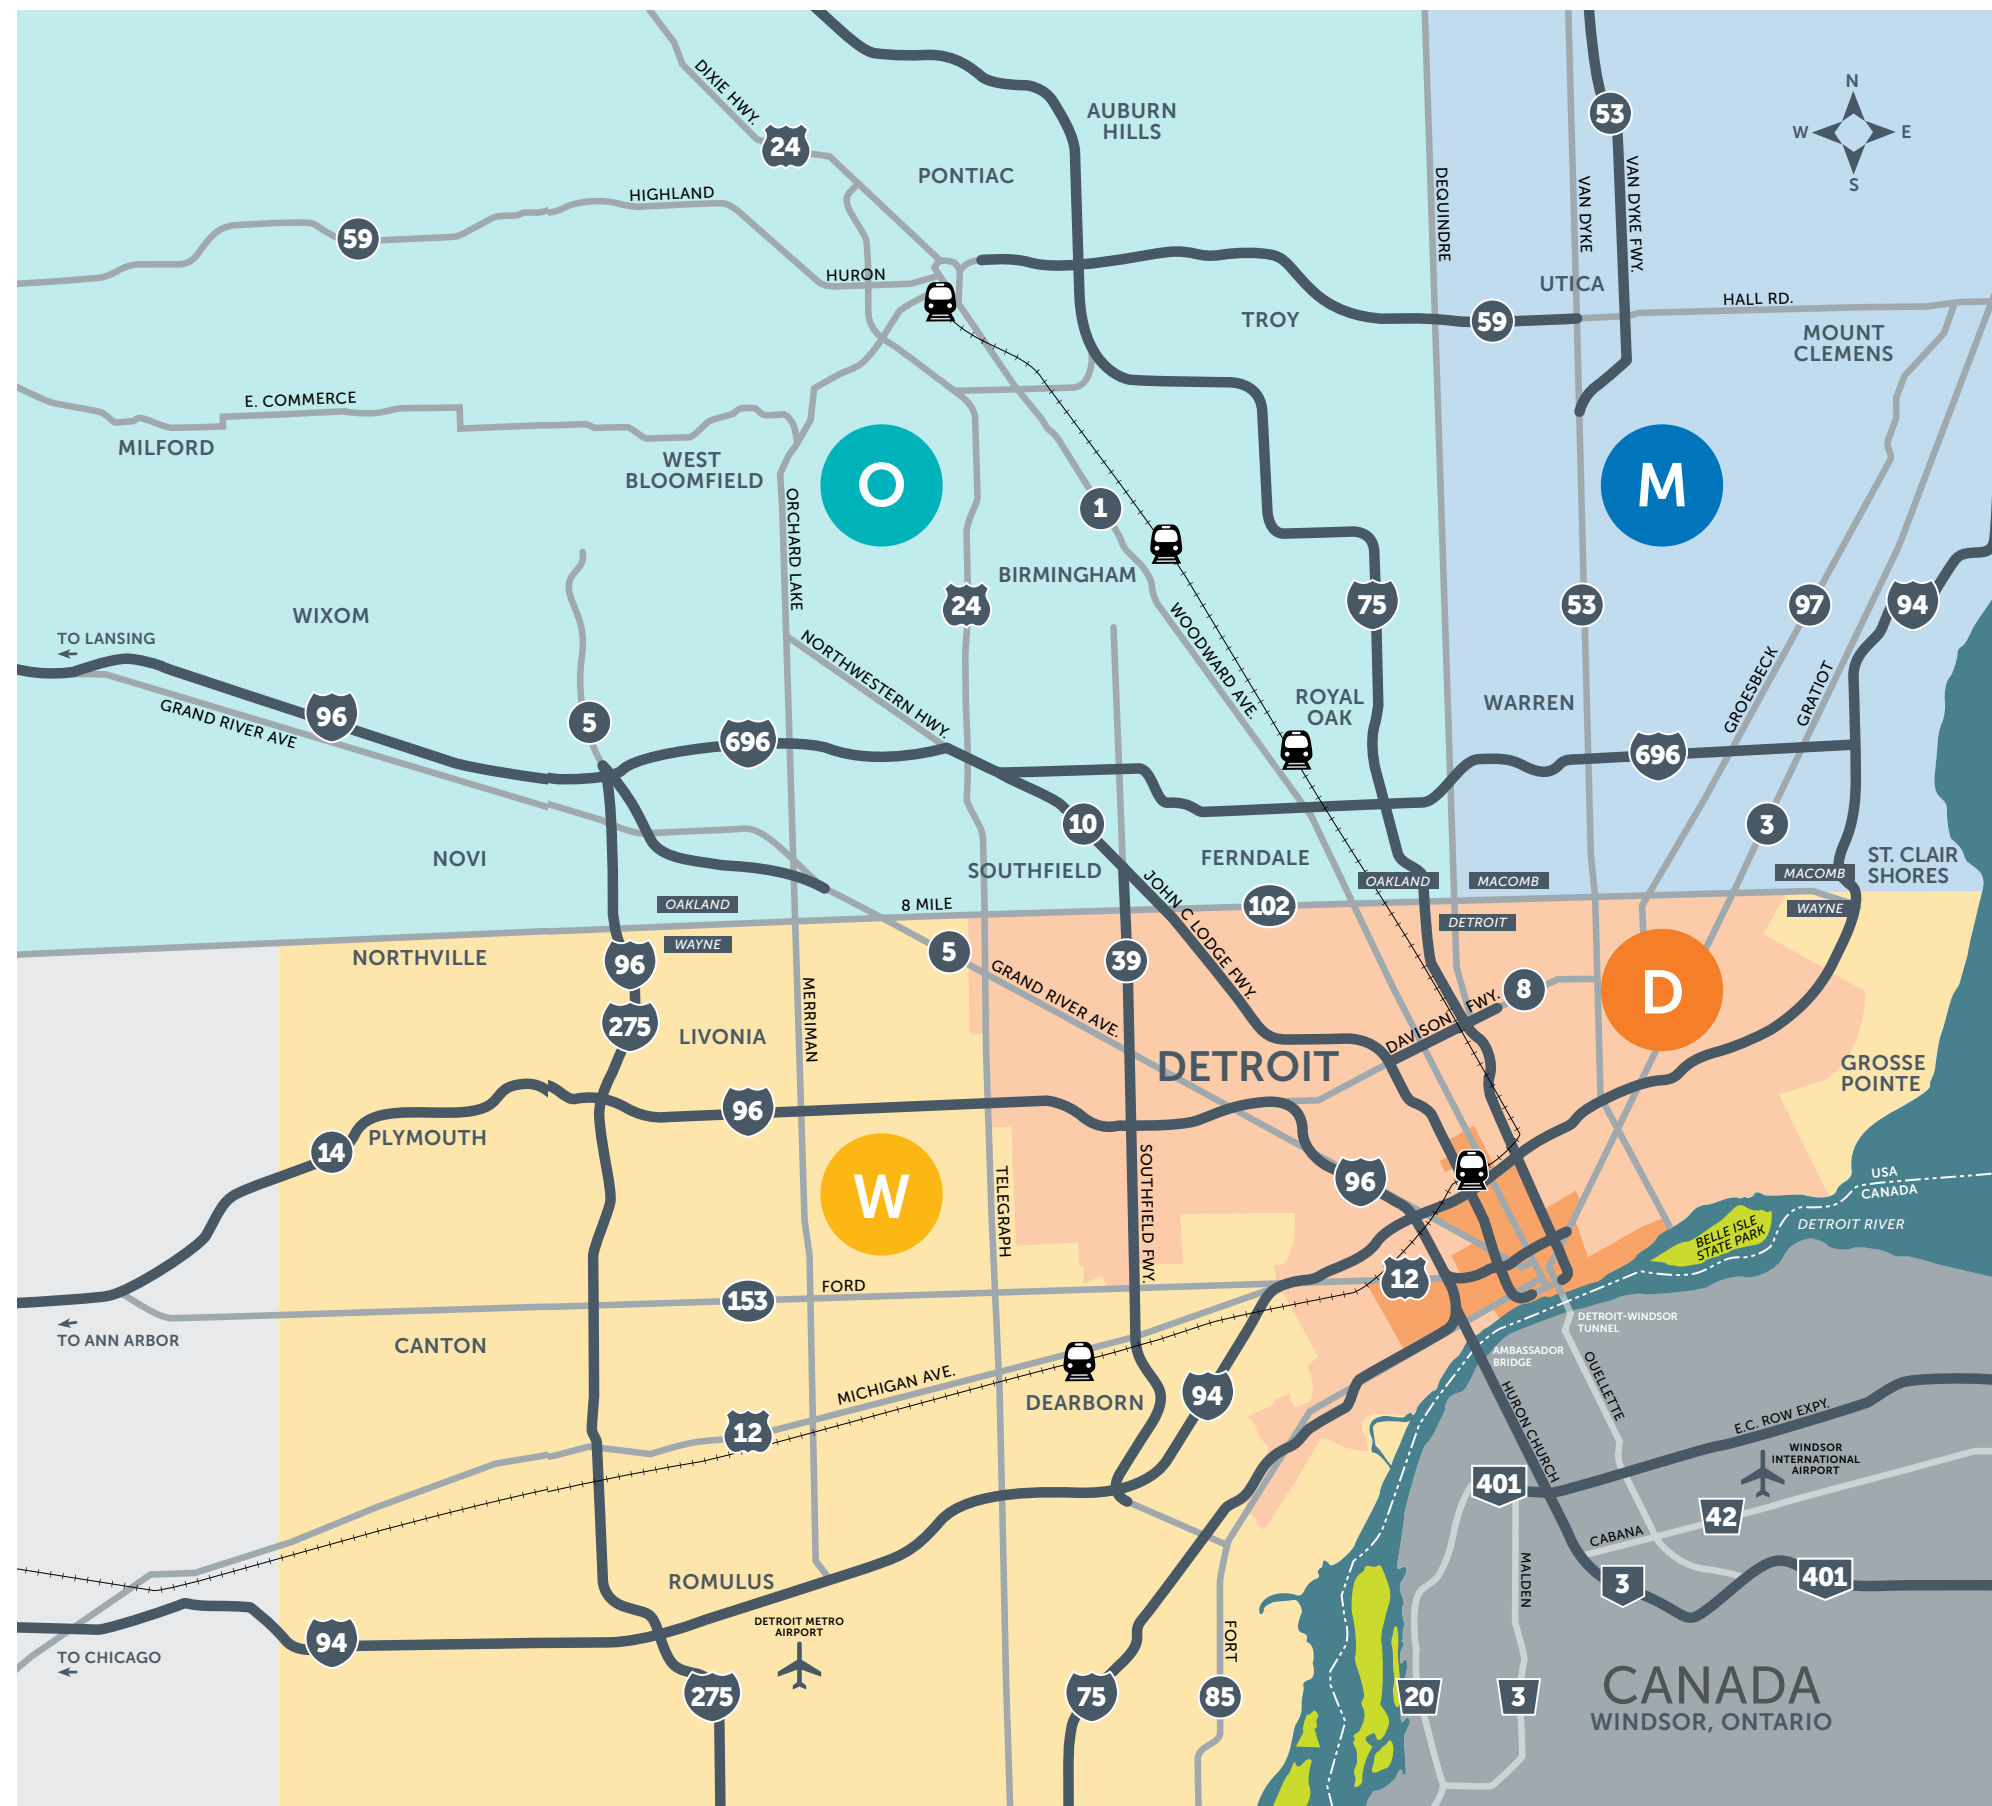

Downriver: A loose terms for 18 suburbs south of Detroit and down the Detroit River (e.g., Romulus, Taylor, Trenton, Wyandotte).

The East Side: Sometimes the suburbs in Macomb, such as Roseville, Sterling Heights and Mount Clemens, are called the East Side.

The Grosse Pointes: Comprised of five cities — Grosse Pointe City, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Shores — these close-knit communities, all of which share borders with the city of Detroit, are located in eastern Wayne County along Lake St. Clair.

DETROIT

CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT

It's not a stretch to call this spot the epicenter of Detroit's metropolitan area. Known for its shopping, businesses, big events and government buildings.

Karl's sets the second floor of the Siren Hotel on fire with luncheonette classics and a nostalgic diner motif that make you feel like you've stepped into another era. There's even a working 1957 Wurlitzer jukebox — only 25 cents. Over Labor Day weekend, be sure to search out a toe-tapping good time at the Detroit Jazz Festival. Known as the world's largest free jazz fest, it takes over downtown from Hart Plaza to Campus Martius Park. After all that jazz, look for overflow fun and food in downtown's theater district. Near the new pedestrian-friendly Columbia Street promenade, you'll find the recently opened Frita Batidos. Spring specials include a pan-seared gulf shrimp frita with lemon-scented mayo. For summer, sample conch fritters and Mexico City corn.

HAMTRAMCK

This city, which sits as a separate entity inside Detroit's borders, is a mecca for Polish food and art as well as underground music.

Two music stages, a carnival, boat races and a parade are highlights of the three-day Hamtramck Labor Day Festival. While you're in the city, visit Record Graveyard and think back to a time before CDs, iPods or Spotify. The store buys and sells old vinyl, with 45s among its popular offerings. Along a parallel nostalgic theme, Mom & Pop Toy Shop specializes in vintage toys, with most of its merchandise from the '80s, like Rubik's Cube, Hot Wheels and Hello Kitty. When it's time to eat, explore eastern European cuisine at Balkan House, which features a mostly Bosnian-inspired menu.

THE HISTORIC AVENUE OF FASHION

Livernois between McNichols and 8 Mile roads is called the Avenue of Fashion. African American entrepreneurship is prominent here, with a walkable shopping district that includes clothing stores, restaurants and art studios.

Release stress and regain your peace of mind at Shears & Shaves. Everything is under one roof to make men, women and children feel relaxed, beautiful and handsome. After that visit, you'll be ready for a day on the town, starting with breakfast or brunch at The Breakfast Cafe. Offerings include lobster tail and waffle and the Superman waffle. Close your day with dinner and music at Baker's Keyboard Lounge, billed as the world's oldest jazz club. Some of the greats, including Ella Fitzgerald and Miles Davis, have performed here. Today's performers tap into that same flair as delicious soul food is served.

MIDTOWN

Just north of downtown Detroit, this bustling neighborhood is a mishmash of art galleries, independent retailers, signature restaurants and Wayne State University.

Take an African dance class, stock up on cowrie shell jewelry and enjoy ethnic food and musical entertainment at the African World Festival. This weekend freebie celebrates the cultures of the African diaspora with more than 150 vendors represented. Close out the weekend at Smith & Co. restaurant's bloody mary and mimosa bar during Sunday brunch. Try one of the top sellers on the menu — maybe the Smith burger, carne asada bowl or the seared trout. If you feel like a craft beer that's devilishly delightful, head next door to Nain Rouge Brewery and its new taproom.

BELLE ISLE STATE PARK

The country's largest urban island park, this oasis has 150 acres of protected woodlands, a golf course, nature zoo, maritime museum, aquarium and conservatory.

Belle Isle State Park is abuzz with activity in spring and summer. In late May, rev your engines and head to the Chevrolet Detroit Grand Prix, a world-class auto racing event on the island. Earlier in the month, celebrate the Japanese heritage of the koi fish at the Koi Festival. The free homage to Japanese culture includes elements of Japan's Children's Day with traditional games, music and martial arts. In June, be among the first to witness the beginnings of the 2.5-acre Oudolf Garden, the brainchild of renowned Dutch garden designer Piet Oudolf. Then, in July, make your way to the Detroit Kite Festival for kite making, flying, food and music. And let's remember, every day on Belle Isle is a good day to just sit by the Detroit River and enjoy the view.

A vibrant enclave full of colorful murals, cultures and cuisines representative of Mexican and Dominican to Venezuelan. Main thoroughfares are Bagley and Vernor.

It's hard to think of Southwest Detroit without thinking about Xochimilco Restaurant. The authentic Mexican eatery serves favorites, including botanas, chimichangas and enchiladas. Then, if you want to feel like you're visiting a tropical island, go to the Mutiny Tiki Bar. The bring-your-own-food establishment offers a range of cocktails served in colorful tiki mugs, including the Pain Killer and Poseidon's Fury. Large shareable cocktails, such as the Scorpion Bowl, are also available. And don't forget to join in for karaoke on Thursdays. When it's time to burn off those yummy calories, go to Riverside Park Skatepark. The free

DEARBORN

Home to The Henry Ford, this city serves up a myriad of cuisines, from Middle Eastern to Italian, along with two distinct walkable downtowns, east and west.

Take a stroll in downtown West Dearborn in June, and sample the city's fare during Taste of Dearborn. Your purchased wristband acts as passage to eateries such as Andiamo and Mint 29. Go VIP to add appetizers and live entertainment. Rather have a sit-down dinner? Try The Himalayan Flames — the best of modern Indian, Tibetan and Nepali food Dearborn has to offer. Once you've had your fill, don't miss visiting the Marvel: Universe of Super Heroes exhibition at Henry Ford Museum of American Innovation.

THE GROSSE POINTES

Referred to as "the Pointes," Grosse Pointe City, Farms, Woods, Shores and Park combine to create a waterfront oasis with shopping, food and fun.

Start a Saturday afternoon at The Bricks Pizzeria, known for its wood-fired, Neapolitan-style pies, stone-milled whole grains, natural fermentation process and farm-fresh ingredients. Once you've had a slice, the next best course of action is shopping The Village - Downtown Grosse Pointe. Treat yourself to boutique clothing at Village Palm or an actual treat from Sweet Little Sheila's Pastry and Cake Shop. Or pamper yourself at Skye Salon — a full-service salon/spa that offers complimentary wine. Not ready for the adventure to end? Take yourself and your blowout to the historic Ford House. Stroll the grounds or peek inside the lives of Eleanor and Edsel Ford with a house tour; offered Tues.-Fri., 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on the hour, and Saturday every half hour.

ARMADA

This town, surrounded by farms and orchards, was one of Reader's Digest's 50 Nicest Places in America in 2019.

Hunt for treasures at the open-air Armada Flea Market. Get there early for some amazing finds, from antiques to tamales. At Blake's Lavender Festival, check out lavender-themed make-and-take workshops, and chat with master gardeners. Pick your own lavender, sample lavender-infused food and drinks, listen to live music, and shop more than 100 made-in-Michigan artisan products. The Armada Fair is the highlight of summer, bringing the community together since 1872 for a full week of livestock shows, agricultural displays, live bands and pie-, pizza-, and watermelon-eating contests.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP

Known for its 1,200 acres of beautifully manicured parks, access to the Clinton River and an annual art fair, this area provides a wealth of recreation.

Explore the Packard Proving Grounds Historic Site with original buildings designed by architect Albert Kahn and random displays of Packard automobiles. It's a host to tours, a Saturday farmers market and the Shelby Township Fireworks Festival (July 2). At Stony Creek Metropark, rent stand-up paddleboards (SUPs), kayaks, canoes, paddleboats and more to navigate the 500-acre Stony Creek Lake. On a hot day, cool off with a ride down the park's mammoth inflatable water slide measuring 50 feet high and 245 feet long. Once you've worked up an appetite, head to Tap & Barrel Grill, an upscale casual sports bar. Order a craft beer and cornflake-battered chicken and waffles topped with mixed berries and Faygo root beer syrup.

LENA SAREINI

PASTRY CHEF, SELDEN STANDARD

"Selden Standard. It's my favorite restaurant in the city because we take our craft seriously. We're a from-scratch kitchen and have tight-knit relationships with Michigan farmers who offer us their best produce. We handmade everything, from our bread and butter and ice creams to our pasta and syrups for our outstanding bar program.

The first time I dined at San Morello, I told my friends it would be the perfect spot to take an out-of-towner. The space is gorgeous, and the food is impressive. Dine here on your birthday, and they bring you dessert with sparklers and snap a Polaroid photo you get to take home.

Baker's Keyboard Lounge is my and my fiancé's favorite date-night spot. This swanky art deco lounge offers great vibes, soul food and live jazz. A perfect place for a low-key evening.

MOCAD (Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit) is updated often, so you can come back again and again and experience new art. There's also a lovely cafe inside called Café 78 that has coffee, pastries, lunch and a full bar.

The Dequindre Cut is an art-filled, two-mile-long path that starts near Eastern Market (easternmarket.org) and ends up at the riverfront. Find a MoGo bike station (mogodetroit.org), hop on The Cut and cruise."

RISING STAR FOR REAL

Anyone with culinary chops knows that the James Beard Awards are considered among the highest culinary honors. It's kinda like the Academy Awards of cooking. Thousands of entries for nominations come in each year for a bunch of different categories. Nominations, in fact, seem to be noteworthy public announcements, let alone the praise poured upon a chef who nabs a category win.

Under 30 and in the industry for less than a decade, Selden Standard's pastry chef Lena Sareini already has three James Beard nominations on her resume. She's been a semifinalist for Rising Star chef in 2018, 2019 and 2020. The category spotlights chefs 30 or younger who display exceptional talent, character and leadership ability. It seems Sareini's unique spin on traditional Lebanese desserts, what some are calling edible art, and her desire to connect customers with her Arab American heritage make her a clear culinary contender who's reaching far beyond Detroit's borders.

Rise & Shine

Come early to Eastern Market (easternmarket.org) to shop the sheds for fruits and veggies, flowers, shrubs and more. Talk to vendors for growing tips and recipes. Enjoy cooking demos and street musicians. Most important, bring a large tote or wagon for your bounty. A smorgasbord of specialty shops also call Eastern Market home. For service and style, patronize Henry the Hatter (henrythehatterdetroit.com), the country's oldest hat retailer. At 3Dogs1Cat (3dogs1cat.com), pick up eclectic merch for pets and their peeps. DeVries & Co. 1887 (devries1887.com) features meats and cheeses. You'll also find Floyd (floydhome.com), a Detroit-based furniture design brand.

Appease Your Appetite

Looking to refuel? Go to Bert's Market Place (bertsentertainmentcomplex.com) for the outdoor barbecue and live music, or try the vegan pulled "pork" sandwich made with marinated jackfruit. There's also always room for a slice of thin-crust pie from Supino (supinopizzeria.com) or some steamed mussels at Vivio's Food & Spirits (viviosdetroit.net), washed down with a loaded bloody mary garnished with cheese, olives, bacon, asparagus and a pickle spear.

Eastern Market

Saturday markets are year-round in Eastern Market, while Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday themed markets run June through September.

Wet Your Whistle

Good times are always on tap at Eastern Market Brewing Co. (easternmarket.beer), or you can sample flights of small-batch whiskey, gin and vodka at Detroit City Distillery (detroitcitydistillery.com). Wine down at Detroit Vineyards (detroitvineyards.com) in the historic Stroh's ice cream factory. Tours by reservation.

Cruise the Great Lakes Initiative

A few years back, the Cruise the Great Lakes Initiative was born to help boost tourism on and around the Great Lakes. Since then, small passenger cruise ships, some accommodating fewer than 100 guests, are out and about in droves on Detroit-area waterways, showing off our shorelines to guests both domestic and international. Some cruise lines embark/disembark from downtown's Port of Detroit on the Detroit River, which feeds Lake Erie, or include the city as a tour stop on several of their multiday adventures. In all, here's another collaborative effort further turning the tide on tourism in The D.

Coriander Kitchen & Farm

It's kinda cool how farmers Alison Heeres and Gwen Meyer have put their spin on the farm-to-table concept by melding kayaking with their culinary chops. The two have been practicing farm-to-table catering, sharing eats from their urban farm near Detroit's Eastern Market, for a while now. They went their own way when they partnered up with Detroit River Sports and took their menus to the former Fisherman's Marina. Now Coriander's paddle-to-table dinners complement Detroit River Sports' kayak tours through the Jefferson Chalmers neighborhood. Coming this spring: their very own brick-and-mortar restaurant right inside the marina.

Rebel Nell | York Project

Rebel Nell and York Project have long been on this magazine's radar. In fact, we've showcased Rebel Nell's graffiti jewelry and streetwear brand York Project's apparel as Detroit-style souvenirs that support good causes. Now the two social enterprises have decided to share a retail space in Detroit's Northwest Goldberg neighborhood. Rebel Nell will be using some of the square footage to help develop customer service and digital literacy skills for its workforce — which is largely made up of Detroiters who previously struggled for employment. And for each item York Project sells at the new location, a homeless person will receive a donation kit that includes necessity items like socks and water. One location now serving two well-deserving operations.

WHERE DO THOSE IN THE KNOW GO?

We asked, they answered: Detroit trendsetters give up the goods on their favorite city go-tos

PHOTOGRAPHY BY GERARD + BELEVENDER

Talk to most Detroiters and they'll tell you the city has changed, significantly. And it's still changing. We've got lots more great restaurants and plenty of cool things to do, especially after dark. While the mainstream has certainly gained momentum — like the Detroit International RiverWalk, Campus Martius Park and The District Detroit — some of the best late-night dining, drinks and nightlife in The D takes place off the beaten path.

If you want to have a well-rounded Detroit experience, you want to go where the pros know to go, right? That's why Visit Detroit chatted up a few of the city's insiders and influencers, persuading them to share some of their after-the-sun-goes-down secrets about where they like to eat, drink, dance and just be.

OUR LATE-NIGHT FOODIE

Max Hardy

Owner, COOP Caribbean Fusion
• coopdetroit.com

Recently named one of the "16 Black Chefs Changing Food in America" by The New York Times, Max is a shining star on the Detroit food scene. The owner of COOP Caribbean Fusion in the Detroit Shipping Co., he serves up amazing jerk chicken and Brussels sprouts that are some of the best in the city.

A former private chef to the stars, Max moved back to his hometown from New York City to make an impact not just on the restaurant scene, but on kids who aspire to enter the culinary arts. A mentor to youth, he regularly hosts workshops and events to share the good, bad and ugly truths about owning a restaurant.

After COOP closes at 10 p.m., Max has a few places he likes to go for a late-night bite and a cocktail. "Honest John's definitely comes to mind first," he shared. The relaxed eatery serves breakfast all day and has a kitchen that stays open until 2 a.m. every day.

Cutter's (right) is another one of his favorites. Located in Eastern Market, Cutter's is open until 2 a.m. on Friday nights. It's sure to be crowded, so be prepared. Touting some of the freshest meat in the city, Cutter's is known for its legendary steak bites.

On the west side of the city, Max recommends Chops Bar & Grill on Grand River, which is open until 2 a.m. every night except Monday, when the restaurant is closed. Chops is known for its friendly party atmosphere, as well as for the huge quesadillas and savory lemon pepper wings.

Like most Detroiters, Max knows that there is a place in Detroit where great food is always served up hot-off-the-grill late at night: the Coney Island. "Coney Island restaurants are classic Detroit," he said. He's also no stranger to the friendly Coney dog competition decades in the making between next-door neighbors American and Lafayette Coney Islands in Detroit. "Every Detroiters has their favorite," he said. "If I'm downtown and have to choose one, I usually pick American."

Bumbo's

ROB'S TOP PICK: Bumbo's, 3001 Holbrook Ave., Hamtramck, 48212; 313-285-8239 or facebook.com/bumbosrestaurant // HONORABLE MENTION: Jolly Old Timers, 641 W. Forest Ave. Detroit, 48201; 313-831-5342

Kiesling Detroit once was a cafe turned dive bar called Edith's Hideaway, a regular hangout for cops, firefighters and autoworkers. According to Rob, the building, which was erected in the 1890s, has had two resident ghosts. "One was a man who was shot by his cousin on the front stoop. The other was Edith's husband, who actually fell down the basement steps and died," he said.

OUR DIVE-BAR DUDE

Rob Wilson

Operator, Kiesling Detroit • kieslingdetroit.com

Dive bars used to be the disreputable hot spots for motorcycle clubs, bad boys (and girls) and manufacturing workers. These days, dive bars are gaining popularity for being true to the aesthetic of their neighborhoods — better known for their cheap, stiff drinks than for a trendy atmosphere.

For Rob, dive bars are all about being cocktail-centric and true to their community and history. Once a drummer and music industry manager, he now aspires to own his own bar and record label. He approaches cocktails with the same kind of artistic flair that he brings to his other creative passions. And while Kiesling is known for its sensational rotating menu of craft cocktails and restored building aesthetic, it still aspires to some true dive-bar traditions — you can get a beer and a shot for $5.

As for Rob's favorite don't-miss dives in metro Detroit, he recommends Bumbo's (left) in Hamtramck. "They have a really nice vibe going on there," he said of the bar owned by Brian and Tia Krawczyk. Bumbo's has cheap drink prices, with nothing more than $8. On Wednesday nights, the joint has been known to offer a Polish food pop-up.

Jolly Old Timers is another one of Rob's picks. This former private club is now open to the public, he said, but remains a well-kept secret with an awesome legacy. "There's something kinda cool and weird about Jolly Old Timers. The bar, and even the customers, make you feel like you're traveling back in time."

OUR MIXOLOGIST

Will Lee

Beverage Director, Grey Ghost • greyghostdetroit.com

After starting his career as a bartender at only 19, Will worked his way up through Detroit's bar scene by creating unique cocktails inspired by the tastes of the city. He says he often finds inspiration walking through Eastern Market, where, on one trip, he discovered an applewood sea salt that now seasons his well-known cocktail, Strange Cloud.

Co-owner of the popular Grey Ghost in Detroit, Will is also a competitive bartender who has won local and national titles, including Detroit Bartender of the Year in 2018. "The best thing about competing is meeting new people," he said, "making friends and learning how they come up with their creations."

When Will isn't pouring one of his own creative craft cocktails or hanging with his family, he likes to go to Selden Standard or Chartreuse Kitchen & Cocktails (right). "Selden and Chartreuse both just crush it," he said. "Any time I do have a moment to sit down and enjoy a cocktail and a great meal, those are my picks."

Selden is Will's former stomping ground, known for its rotating and curated drink selection, which is paired with a highly rated, fresh farm-to-table menu. They do things like churn their own butter here. (See the story on Page 32 featuring Selden's award-winning dessert diva, Lena Sareini.) At Chartreuse, the menu changes with the seasons. "The food at Chartreuse is high level and amazing," Will shared, "but the atmosphere is still relaxed and very cool."

Will is also quick to recommend the Detroit classic, Bronx Bar. Sugar House and Milwaukee Junction's Kiesling Detroit (where his former colleague, Rob Wilson, is bartender and operator) are on his short list, too. See Rob's recommendations on Page 40.

Chartreuse Kitchen & Cocktails

WILL'S TOP PICKS: Selden Standard, 3921 Second Ave., Detroit, 48201; 313-438-5055 or seldenstandard.com; Chartreuse Kitchen & Cocktails, 15 E. Kirby St., Ste. Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, 48202; 313-638-2169 or kieslingdetroit.com

Will's Strange Cloud cocktail is an Irish whiskey parallel to the classic Old Fashioned — smoked maple syrup, smoked sea salt, house-made walnut bitters and a bath of Scotch whisky.

OUR CLUB CONNOISSEUR

Lauren McGrier

Connect With Lo // Founder, TwerkXTequila • connectwithlo.com, twerkxtequila.com

Millennials love a themed party. TwerkXTequila combines great music, tequila and lowered inhibitions for an event that is a hot ticket every time. Initially launched in 2018, TwerkXTequila has quickly gained momentum, selling out its 2019 Cinco de Mayo party, for example, in just a day. Lauren knew she had a hit on her hands. Ever since, the event has become a popular pop-up in Detroit and has even taken place in New Orleans during the Essence Music Festival.

When Lauren isn't party planning, she likes to go to Flood's Bar and Grille. "Flood's is a Detroit nightlife staple," she said of the city institution that's been around for more than 25 years. "Most nights, it caters more to what I call, 'the auntie and uncle crowd,' referring to the Gen Xers and baby boomers who made the club popular. On Tuesday nights, however, Flood's is a regular gathering spot for millennials. They have a great late-night happy hour from like 10 p.m. to 1 a.m., which is really cool because you can come late and still get a great, cheap drink." Flood's also has a legendary soul food menu. The macaroni and cheese is some of the best in the city. Lauren loves to hang with Amber Lewis, founder of Black Women Do Social, and Designer Hack's Trice Clark, who puts on craft-based DIY workshops around the city where you can fabricate everything from hair accessories to home decor. She also spends time with the Detroit-based collective called The Whlgn, which hosts pop-up events in the city. Delmar Detroit (right) is on her worth-a-mention list, as is El Club. Delmar is a rooftop venue and popular summer spot, as are its neighbors Greektown and the bar Exodos. El Club in Southwest Detroit is the spot Lauren credits for much of her success, and is known for its concerts, art and outdoor bar.

LAUREN'S TOP PICK: Flood's Bar and Grille, 731 St. Antoine, Detroit, 48226, 313-963-1090 or floodsdetroit.com // HONORABLE MENTIONS: Delmar Detroit, 501 Monroe St., Detroit, 48226; 313-403-2111 or delmardetroit.com; El Club, 4114 Vernor Hwy., Detroit, 48209; 313-279-7382 or elclubdetroit.com

Lauren McGrier is hard at work promoting Detroit and its potential, looking for more support for city events from national brands. "Sponsors often tell us that Detroit isn't a priority market, but there are people here who want to have fun and have money to spend. We hope to change their idea of what Detroit has to offer." OUR BREWMASTER

John Turnage

Owner, Michigan Brew Tours • mibrewtours.org

John is a graduate of the brewing and distillation program at Schoolcraft College, and he is a certified cicerone with a high-level knowledge of beer, beer service and tasting. John even dabbles in some home brewing from time to time.

When John thinks about visitors from out of town looking for great places to drink beer in Detroit, he thinks of Batch Brewing (left). "They are a fantastic brewery. Their beers are spot on, and I've never had a dull moment there."

The suburbs also offer a lot of great breweries and distilleries. John lives in Livonia, about 15 miles west of downtown Detroit. He strongly recommends a few incredible breweries in his neck of the woods. Liberty Street in Plymouth is owned by Joe Walters, a brew instructor at Schoolcraft College, where John matriculated. "Liberty Street does a lot of small-batch brewing and constant rotating taps," he shared.

"Canton Brew Works is a larger venue that has something going on almost every night, from trivia to food trucks," he added.

John can't hide his excitement about a few new breweries hitting the scene. River Rouge Brewing Co. is set to open the first-ever brewery in Oak Park, previously a dry city.

As for the future of craft beer, he thinks small-batch brewing and local pub-style venues are where we're headed. "I think we are going to get to a point where every community or neighborhood will have its own beer style and taste, which would be very cool."

OUR MUSIC MAN

Albert Fritter

Band member, The Cufflinks and Brother Hallow • brotherhallow.com

A trombonist, guitar player and singer, Albert plays in several cover and original bands. One of his gigs, The Cufflinks, plays barbershop quartet-style music from the 1800s to present day. He's also a member of Brother Hallow, a rock and soul band known around the city for its literary storytelling style. A native of Hamtramck, Albert comes from a family that has deep local roots and a passion for music. "When I don't have music in my life," he said, "everything turns to chaos."

When Albert isn't on stage or strumming a tune with friends, one of his favorite go-to venues is Baker's Keyboard Lounge. "It's a pretty mainstream lounge, but the fans who come out are super dedicated to the music."

Self-proclaimed as the world's oldest jazz club, Baker's has hosted greats like John Coltrane, Ella Fitzgerald and Nat "King" Cole, and today headlines local treasured vocalists like Isis Damil. It pairs its live entertainment with tasty soul food.

In addition to Baker's, an anchor on Detroit's Avenue of Fashion, Albert recommends his native Hamtramck to see local acts play great shows. "Small's is a legendary venue. I was playing there when I was just in my midteens," he said. "There's also Planet Ant, Ant Hall and the Ghost Light (left), which are great venues for music, comedy and improv."

Also while in Hamtramck, Albert suggests checking out the Painted Lady and Barter, one of the newer venues in his hometown that regularly hosts open mic nights, jam sessions, art shows, cabaret, comedy and more.

To get acquainted with cool musical acts playing at unique and original locations, Albert recommends connecting with Sofar Sounds. A community of thousands of artists, hosts, fans, travelers and more, this collective puts on hundreds of secret, intimate events per month around the world, including in Detroit. sofarsounds.com/detroit

HELLO, AUTO SHOW. MEET SUMMER.

THE NORTH AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL
AUTO SHOW COMES TO DETROIT THIS JUNE

BY CASSANDRA SPRATLING

In the words of that great hit from Motown legends The Temptations, Get Ready.

The North American International Auto Show (NAIAS) drives its most interactive, innovative and expansive celebration of transportation into downtown Detroit this summer.

For the first time in its 100-year history, the Detroit-hosted international auto show will be held during Michigan's sweeter summer days rather than in the blustering cold of January. It takes over the downtown area starting on June 5, officially opening to the public June 13-20. And the festivities before, during and after the show promise to bring as much fun as well as fanfare to the city, with everything from restaurants and art institutions to food trucks and local musical acts getting in on the auto action (see story on Page 51).

"The summer creates more of a destination opportunity not only for our local residents but for people from all over the Great Lakes, Chicago, Columbus, Cincinnati and, really, globally," said Doug North, chairman of the 2020 NAIAS.

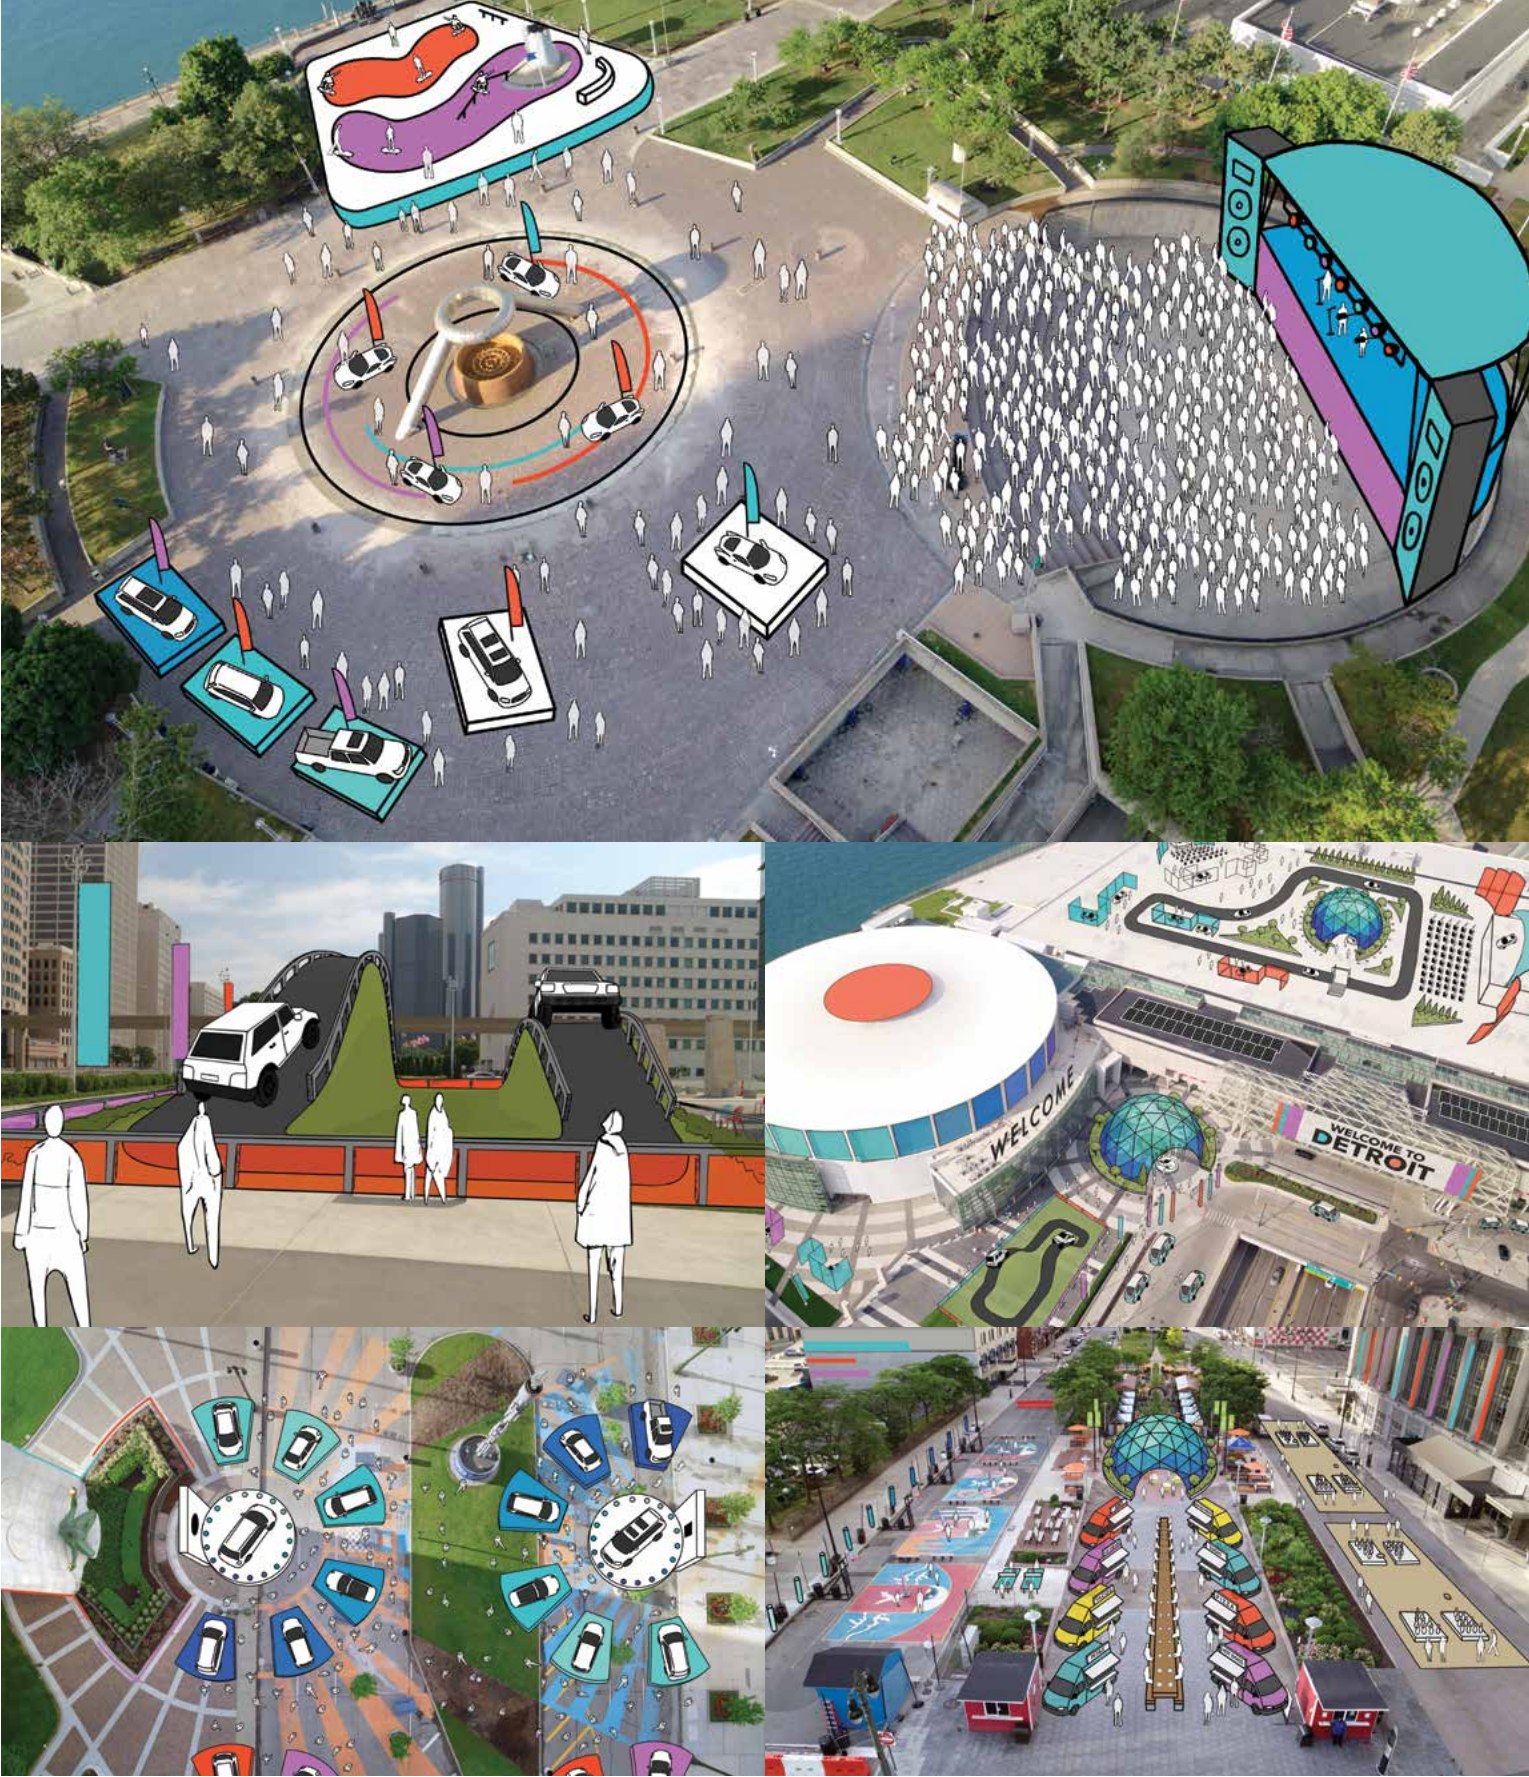

"Now people can not only come to see our show but also see all the great things happening in Detroit, all around downtown."

With the summertime setup, the auto show, which typically attracts upwards of 800,000 people annually, will also offer more opportunities for people to fully experience the vehicles and the developing technology that make Detroit not only the Motor City but the center for future mobility, shared Rod Alberts, executive director of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association (DADA), which presents the auto show.

"The North American International Auto Show is a stage for key players in mobility," said Alberts. "Our job is to create a Disneyland of cars and mobility innovation where consumers will not just stare at static products, but they will live the dynamics of the product."

More to See and Do

Showgoers can begin experiencing elements of automotive innovation even before they get downtown. For the first time ever, autonomous and electric vehicles will shuttle select visitors — including members of the international press — from the airport to the show and downtown destinations such as hotels and restaurants. These shuttle opportunities are the result of a statewide competition, called the NAIAS 2020 Michigan

HUBS OF ACTIVITY
The North American International Auto Show's new indoor-outdoor format will include 10 outdoor activation sites in and around the core downtown Detroit area and Central Business District from June 5-20.

Mobility Challenge, presented by the State of Michigan and NAIAS. Automated vehicle providers partnered with state colleges and universities, philanthropic groups and other companies to develop autonomous and electric vehicles that could be put to the transportation test during the auto show. Michigan Gov. Gretchen Whitmer announced seven public-private projects selected through a competitive process that will offer these innovative transportation options, which include a project accessible to people with physical disabilities.

"People will not only be able to see the product at the show, they'll be able to experience the product firsthand on the way to and from the show," Alberts said.

Autonomous vehicles will also be available to test-drive on the rooftop of the TCF Center and nearby roads.

Other upgrades and additions for 2020 NAIAS:

- Motor Bella presented by PNC Bank. One of the biggest additions to the annual auto show, Motor Bella will be a European supercar street festival. The four-day fest — held June 5-7 — will showcase more than 100 Italian and British high-performance exotic cars representing 12 brands. All will be stationed along Broadway Street near the Detroit Opera House and the Shinola and Element boutique hotels. Alfa Romeo, Ferrari and Rolls-Royce are among the luxury brands that will be featured. The best in Italian cuisine from leading local restaurants, food trucks and street vendors will also be showcased.
- Hart Plaza. Typically, NAIAS features about 750 different cars, utility vehicles and trucks — or unique models — on the showroom floor at TCF Center. This year, with the addition of 14 acres at Hart Plaza, NAIAS expects that number could rise to 850 vehicles. Plus, there could be e-bikes, scooters and other modes of transportation as automakers show off technology through all methods of mobility.
- An enhanced and expanded Charity Preview. Unofficially known as Detroit's "Auto Prom," there will be two ways to enjoy this spectacular evening gala that supports nine local charities. Both will be held June 12. See story on Page 50.
- A kid zone: A new interactive kid zone will add exciting options for children to enjoy the show and experience new vehicles. While all the details were still under wraps at this magazine's press time, The Parade Company's Tony Michaels and DADA's Alberts guaranteed family fun for all ages.
- More interactive opportunities: NAIAS will showcase multiple ways for people to experience the vehicles, not just look at them. "We want to put people in the cars and seats of vehicles to feel, see and experience the product," Alberts confirmed.

Industry insiders and critics are saying this major summer tune-up of the Detroit auto show takes it into the future with style, excitement and class.

"It's a spectacle! There are few auto shows around the world designated officially as international car shows, and the Detroit auto show is one of them," said veteran auto journalist Mark Phelan. "Leaders in automaking have decided Detroit is the place to make their biggest news, to show their best stuff and put on their most theatrical staging."

Automotive analyst Lauren Fix couldn't agree more, and she, along with show organizers and other automotive experts, imagines that 800,000 attendance figure attached to NAIAS will be far exceeded this year, thanks to the move to June.

"It's going to be great, more consumer oriented," said Fix "So you'll get more people coming out than you have in the past."

Show chairman North best summed up expectations earlier this year at a news conference when he said: "You can expect experiences both inside and outside that will touch every one of your senses. You'll experience cutting-edge electric and autonomous shuttles and passenger vehicles. You'll take ride-and-drives along Detroit's incredible waterfront. You'll see a showcase of the industry's most impressive technology ... You'll hear insights from some of the most prominent voices in the mobility space ... and listen to music from icons in the industry. You'll even taste the best food Detroit has to offer. It's going to be an exciting ride. Buckle up!"

Before and After the Auto Show

Looking for auto-themed things to do right before and after you ooh and aah at the 2020 North American International Auto Show in Detroit?

Driven to Win: Racing in America is a new permanent 24,000-square-foot exhibition at The Henry Ford in Dearborn that tells the story of American automobile racing. It's set to open in June 2020 in Henry Ford Museum of American Innovation.

The exhibit will include dozens of automobiles, many of them record breakers and game changers in terms of speed, innovation and design, said Matt Anderson, curator of transportation at The Henry Ford. Visitors can also enjoy interactive activities, including racing simulators and pit crew experiences, while they get a wider and deeper appreciation of the sport of racing itself. "A lot of people think racers aren't real athletes," said Anderson. "Our exhibit will help people appreciate what these athletes experience."

Anderson added that the June opening of Driven to Win perfectly coincides with the many auto-related events happening in Detroit this summer, notably NAIAS and the Chevrolet Detroit Grand Prix. "Targeting a summer opening offers a real opportunity for us to be a part of all the excitement all over southeast Michigan," he said. "We are going to have an unusual number of auto enthusiasts and racers in town. And it's a great opportunity to be a part of it."

Other auto-centric events at The Henry Ford in Greenfield Village that are on the calendar around the same time as NAIAS include Motor Muster over Father's Day weekend (June 20-21). During Motor Muster, the village grounds are blanketed with more than 700 vehicles of every kind imaginable, including muscle cars, pony cars, classics, military vehicles, fire trucks, motorcycles and bicycles from the 1930s to the 1970s. This year, the event is poised to help celebrate the opening of the Driven to Win exhibit.

After you catch a closer look at the Diego Rivera Detroit Industry murals at the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA), search out Detroit Style: Car Design in the Motor City, 1950-2020, which kicks off June 13 and runs through Jan. 10, 2021. This DIA exhibit will showcase the design of cars from sketch pad to the road, reflecting the culture of the various periods in which they were developed. As a further complement, 12 full-size vehicles — whose designs reflect the period in which they were conceived — will be on display.

"Even if you're not a nuts-and-bolts car person, you will appreciate the beauty and ingenuity of the designers who created them," said Benjamin W. Colman, curator of the DIA exhibit that he believes can add context to what you see at NAIAS. "We want to celebrate what was made here in Detroit and how what happened here impacted and influenced the world," he added. "This exhibit tells a story of American history and American art."

And as The Henry Ford's Anderson mentioned, Detroit is once again host to the Chevrolet Detroit Grand Prix presented by Lear, which returns to Belle Isle on May 29-31, just a few weeks before NAIAS opens to the public. A spectacular weekend of IndyCar racing includes the Comerica Bank Free Prix Day on Friday that opens the stands and the track to the public so spectators can get a free close-up look at the cars, their drivers and the race course. Throughout the weekend, Belle Isle will also rev up with some of America's top race cars and drivers, including two days of IMSA (International Motor Sports Association) WeatherTech exotic sports car and Motor City muscle car racing.

Detroit's Automotive Royalty

After you see the cars of today and tomorrow at the North American International Auto Show, get a closer look at the lifestyles of America's automotive royalty of the past. Many of the industry's biggest auto barons had magnificent manors in metro Detroit, and some are open for public tours.

Ford House, 1100 Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Shores

This spacious mansion was the family home of Henry Ford's only son, Edsel, his wife, Eleanor, and their children. It hosts daily public tours and events. Annual summertime activities that happen around the same time as NAIAS include the Eyes on Design Automotive Design Exhibition on June 21, which showcases hundreds of classic and rare automobiles.

Meadow Brook Hall, 350 Estate Drive, Rochester

Built by the widow of automotive pioneer John F. Dodge, Matilda Wilson Dodge, and her second husband, lumber broker Alfred Wilson, this 110-room, 88,000-square-foot mansion has been deemed one of America's foremost examples of a Tudor-revival style home. Today, it's popular for tours, weddings and other special occasions.

Fisher Mansion, 383 Lenox Ave., Detroit

Built in 1928 by Lawrence Fisher of the famous Fisher Body family, this 22,000-square-foot mansion was donated to the Hare Krishnas by Alfred Brush Ford, the great-grandson of Henry Ford, and Elizabeth Reuther Dickmeyer, daughter of late UAW President Walter Reuther, in the 1970s. Now called ISKCON Detroit for International Society for Krishna Consciousness, the center welcomes people for tours at 4:15 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Sundays and by appointment during the week. A vegetarian feast is offered at 6 p.m. Sundays.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to the COVID-19 pandemic many events in metro Detroit are canceled or postponed and some venues are temporarily closed. Readers should call or check websites to confirm hours, dates, time or locations.

Drive Home, a caravan of five or six select vehicles from LeMay—America's Car Museum in Tacoma, Washington, will depart from Disneyland in Anaheim, California, in May and make its way to Detroit to mark the start of the North American International Auto Show. The road rally, which features vehicles with Detroit roots, will take a celebratory drive down Woodward Avenue.

The Ford Piquette Avenue Plant, the birthplace of the Model T, will have special hours and events in June in conjunction with the 2020 NAIAS. On June 4, the historic plant will host a free day, giving the public no-cost access to the plant's second floor and its new dealership exhibition and Ford Letter Car Collection. And while the plant is typically closed on Tuesdays, it will be open Tuesday, June 9 and June 16, and offer extended evening hours on Wednesday, June 10 and June 17. David Flatt, the plant's executive director, said other one-time auto show activities are in the works, too, including special exhibits and speakers. Stay tuned for details at fordpiquetteplant.org.

INSIDER TIP: Antique Touring Company is the only history tour offered daily in Detroit utilizing antique automobiles. It is headquartered at the Ford Piquette Avenue Plant. For more info, see Page 68 or visit antiquetouring.com.

Square miles of metro Detroit.

84°F/15°F

In July and August, the average high is 84 and in January-February the low falls to 15. You can expect pretty much every type of weather — rain, sun, snow, sleet or hail — on any given day. We have all four seasons here, which makes for great variety.

30/60 MINUTES

Our airport is within 30 minutes of downtown Detroit and within 60 minutes of most metro Detroit destinations.

DETROIT METRO AIRPORT — DTW

DTW IS A MAJOR DELTA HUB THAT'S ONLY A 90-MINUTE FLIGHT — OR LESS — FROM 60 PERCENT OF THE COUNTRY'S POPULATION. ALL MAJOR DOMESTIC AIRLINES, FOUR LOW-COST CARRIERS AND SEVERAL INTERNATIONAL CARRIERS OFFER SERVICE FROM THE AIRPORT.

If you should happen to miss your terminal while driving in the Detroit Metro Airport complex, you can simply circle around to reach it again.

DRIVING TO THE AIRPORT

If you're coming from Detroit, the eastern burbs or the western way-beyonds, such as Ann Arbor, I-94 is the best route. It runs east and west. The airport is visible from the roadway, so it's hard to miss. Watch the signs and look for exits 198 or 199. Access to all terminals is clear-cut from I-94, especially if you're headed to the North Terminal.

If you're coming from the western suburbs or much of Downriver (a loose term for 18 suburbs south of Detroit and "down" the Detroit River), take I-275. This one runs north and south. Keep your eyes out for Eureka Road, Exit 15. The McNamara Terminal, which is the home of anchor carrier Delta Air Lines, will be in your sight first.

NEED A SHUTTLE? See Page 106 or visitdetroit.com/metro-detroit-transportation.

FLY IN, FLY OUT

Detroit Metro Airport has two main terminals, McNamara and North. Together, they offer more than 100 shops, restaurants, customer conveniences and amenities, plus extra-wide moving walkways and connector shuttles. In the McNamara Terminal, there are two indoor trams and an on-site luxury Westin hotel.

GOOD EATS AT DTW

Eater Detroit (tinyurl.com/dtw-eat) offered up its best bets for good eats at Detroit Metro Airport, whether you're hanging in the McNamara and/or North terminals.

In the McNamara Terminal:

Bigalora Wood-Fired Cucina • Plum Market • Andiamo • Cat Cora's Taproom • LongHorn Steakhouse • Vino Volo • Harvest & Grounds • Illy Coffee & Fountain Bar • Leo's Coney Island • Sora • Reflections Restaurant & Lounge • Mezza

In the North Terminal:

National Coney Island • Earl of Sandwich • Mod Pizza • Starbucks • Air Margaritaville • Atwater Brewery • Detroit Street Cafe • Cantoro Italian Market Trattoria

NEW DINING

Through 2020, DTW's North Terminal will see a host of new restaurants pop up, including Jolly Pumpkin Taphouse, Anita's Kitchen Lebanese Cafe, Detroit-based Common Grace Coffee Co., French bakery Brioche Dorée and chicken sandwich chain Chick-fil-A.

ROAD TIPS

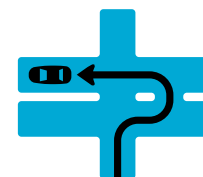

70MPH

Interstate speed limit

55: mph in the city
70: The maximum speed limit on metro Detroit highways and interstates. But be careful, some, like the Southfield Freeway (M-39), have a posted 55 mph max.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS

When speaking to native Detroiters, use interstate numbers and the names for state or U.S. highways. Some basics:

- It's I-75, not the Fisher.
- Call it the Lodge instead of M-10; hop on Southfield, rather than M-39.
- Woodward Avenue (aka M-1).

FIND A SAFE HAVEN — PROJECT LIGHTHOUSE

If you're not sure which way to turn or your rental vehicle is giving you trouble (aka you locked the keys in the car) while in downtown Detroit, keep an eye out for a light-blue Lighthouse logo. The Lighthouse indicates a 24/7 Project Lighthouse safe haven that's ready to assist you. You can also call 313-471-6490. More than 30 businesses in The D currently sport the Lighthouse logo, including the GM Ren Cen, Ford Field, Greektown Casino-Hotel, Fox Theatre, TCF Center and the Westin Book Cadillac Detroit hotel.

For more info, visit downtowndetroit.org/do-business/what-is-safety-security/project-lighthouse.

CROSSING THE BORDER

INTERESTED IN PAYING A VISIT TO WINDSOR?

You can do so easily from Detroit using either the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel or the Ambassador Bridge. There's also the Blue Water Bridge in Port Huron.

Really — it's easy.

If you are a United States (U.S.) citizen, you will need one of the following identification documents to return to the U.S. by car.

U.S. Passport Book, U.S. Passport Card, Enhanced Driver's License, Trusted Traveler Program Cards NEXUS, SENTRI or FAST

For further information on passport applications, please visit travel.state.gov, crossingmadeeasy.com or call the National Passport Information Center at 877-487-2778.

Duty-Free

One of the bennies of going to Windsor is you can visit the duty-free shops. Lots of perfume, tobacco products and booze at great discounts. You may have to pay duties on these items when you enter Canada or re-enter the United States if you go crazy and spend more than the allowed personal exemption. Get more info at tunneldutyfree.com.

Spend 24 hours or more in the States, and the duty-free and Canadian tax exemptions on purchased goods get better and better.

6% Michigan sales tax (excluding food).
The hotel sales tax is 13%-15%.
